home some time next June. Town Street Property Sold. Archa W. Coit has sold or Mary R. Geer the residence situated at No. 10 Town street to Joseph H. Hunter. There is an eight room house and a large garden with fruit trees in pleas-DAVIS THEATRE.

Three big time Keith vaudeville acts and a wonderful Paramount Arteraft feature picture is the main attraction the Davis today. The big feature the vaudeville is the Temple Quartette, a clever singing act with inirth, music and harmony. The second offering is J. Francis Sullivan and company, in the comedy skit, "The Live Wire." The third act is Ryan and O'Neill in a singing and dancing specialty that is real good. All three acts are regular standard Keith offerings and come here direct from the larger Keith theatres. The feature picture is Henry B. Walthall, in Thomas H. Ince's latest and greatest. tette, a clever singing act with mirth music and harmony. The second offerpicture is Henry B. Walthall, in Thomas H. "The Lone Wolf," a novel written by Mr. Vance, was widely read and o Sherlock Holmes and daring of D'Artagnan, became highly popular. Lanyard is the central figure of "The False Faces," and in this story he is seen as a reformed man, bent on revenge against a Hun spy who has brought Lanyard's wife and child to death in Belgium.

Lanyard is attached to the cause of the allies as a secret agent and he is introduced as he creeps across No Man's Land into the French lines. with information of value regarding the Hun operations. He boards a steamship for New York and on board this vessel he meets with several re-markable adventures, in which a German U-boat figures largely. How he gains his revenge and wins the love of a brave woman who falls into the meshes of a corterie of Hun spics, forms a thrilling narative.

The Button Holmes Travelogue and a funcy Lyons and Moran comedy complete the show. Entire new show tomorrow,

BREED THEATRE.

Today and Thursday the Breed will present Viola Dana in "False Evidence" This is without a doubt the finest picture that this popular little star has ever made. It is adapted from the famous novel "Madelon" by Mary E. Wilkins. From a production standpoint this feature is notable picturesque scenes are seen throughout the picture and the characters are interesting and well portrayed. Miss Dana's hubbling personality does wonders. She plays with an enthusiasm that is infectious and gives a wholly and Thursday the Breed will mess picture that this popular little star has ever made. PAGELNT. Blue-gray Dawn, not the lows for Like frightened children, through the

Artillery along tee clouds Spurts rainbow-streams on copse and laws,
As Day, the General, signals for
The red barrage of Dawn.

Rehind a curtain-sky of fire.
That jumbled flood of turquoine sea,
The sunbcams awoop, like eagles, dow
Dawn's glittering infantry.

Then clash the arms of Day and Night: But Night's redoubts are weak and old, And we're Day's victors sweep the field They lose a shower of gold.

Yet violets and daffodils. And little blades of sleepy grass, With me, of all Life's living things, Behold this pageant pass. standing hushed among the flowers, e Earth drinks deep the wine of Spring,
ir the rivers raise glad voice.
The green-robed valleys sing.

Corson Miller, in the New York INVITATION TO TEA-1919. Dear old chap, we're on a foreland.
By a stretch of Yorkshire moorland:
England was, to us, a poor land.
Ere we flipped from town to sea.
If you find old London Town slow.
Take an aero-bus at Hounslow.
And these lovely rolling downs, le!
Shall be yours 'twixt lunch and tea.

ere we take, in sunny weather, ainty picule teas together.

Ising out from smoke to heather—
Just a twenty minutes spin.

o. old heau, we all invite you;

or need thought of risk affright you;

et a parachute alight you;

If you're passing, do drop in!

Discommonly believed that, so far as Great Britain is concerned, the lace industry was introduced by the Flemings into Bedfordshire in the first quarier of the seventeenth century; but this was a hand-made process, and lacemaking continued a hand industry until almost the very end of the eighteenth century. The manufacture of lace by mechanical means is, therefore very modern in time, dating from the closing years of the lighteenth century or the beginning of the nineteenth century.
